

Perfluorinated and polyfluorinated alkyl substances (PFAS) comprise a large, diverse group of chemicals that includes several thousand different variants. JEAN MÜLLER is actively following the ongoing debate on the regulation of PFAS in the EU and is constantly analysing the impact on the products sold by JEAN MÜLLER. To this end, we are working closely with our suppliers and customers.

With regard to enquires about the presence of PFAS in the products sold by JEAN MÜLLER, we would like to point out that currently only a proposal to restrict PFAS has been published and there is currently no legal obligation to provide information in the supply chain. Due to the complexity of the issue, the lack of transparency in the supply chain and the uncertain legal situation, a fully comprehensive assessment of individual products is unfortunately not possible at present.

Nevertheless, we would like to make our contribution to transparent supply chains. Accordingly, we are happy to provide you with information based on our current state of knowledge, which has been determined with the greatest possible care and to the best of our knowledge on the basis of a risk-based approach and is constantly being further developed.

However, due to the circumstances described, we cannot accept any liability for the completeness of the information.

If you have any queries, please contact material.info@jeanmueller.de.
